

Perspective from Shariah on Legal and Human Rights

Yusuf Abdul Azeez

Faculty of Islamic Civilization, Universiti Teknologi Malaysia,
81310 Skudai, Johor, Malaysia

Tel: +6014-2324730 E-mail: abdulazezyusuf2003@yahoo.com

Abstract

The aim of this paper is to examine concepts of Legal and Human Rights from the perspective of Shariah. The discussion is divided into three components, the first of which focuses on the origins, nature and development of Legal and Human Rights law(s) in the Shariah perspective. The second part discusses debates and declarations on Legal and Human Rights in modern times, while the third evaluates the role and impact of Shariah in the implementation and execution of Legal and Human Rights provisions by modern society. This is done with a view to highlight the dynamic nature of Islamic Legal and Human Rights systems that establish distinctly energetic Legal and Human Rights provisions and values for mankind.

Keywords: Shariah; Legal and Human Rights; Modern Society; Mankind; Human Being

References

Al-Maududi, A. A. (1975). Human Rights in Islam. Retrieved from <http://www.iium.edu.my/deed/articles/hr.html>. Retrieved on 11th July 2012.

Berween, M. (2002). The Fundamental Human Rights: An Islamic Perspective. International Journal of Human Rights, 6(1): 61-78.

Baderin, M. A. (2003). International Human Rights and Islamic Law. Oxford University Press, Oxford.

Brohi, A. K. (1980). Key Note Address on Nature of Islamic Law and the Concept of Human Rights. Seminar on Human Rights in Islam, Kuwait.

Delling, M. (2004). Islam and Human Rights. Unpublished Master's Thesis. Department of Law, School of Economics and Commercial Law, Goteborg University, Goteborg.

Fathi Osman. (n.d). Human Rights in the Contemporary World: Problems for Muslims and others. Retrieved from http://www.usc.edu/schools/college/crcc/private/cmje/issues/Human_Rights_in_the_Contemporary.pdf. Retrieved on 12 July, 2012.

Husein, S. K. (1984). A Treatise on Right and Duty: Their Evolution, Definition, Analysis and Classification according to the Principles of Jurisprudence. Delhi Law House, Delhi, India.

International Commission of Jurists, University of Kuwait and Union of Arab Lawyers. (1980). Human Rights in Islam. Report of Seminar held in Kuwait, Kuwait.

Kasule, U. A. (2009). Contemporary Muslims and Human Rights Discourse: A Critical Assessment.

IIUM Press, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

Khan Afridi, M. M. (2008). Hadith on Human Rights. Anmol Publications PVT LTD, New Delhi, India.

Khan, A. A. and Khan, T. M. (2006). Encyclopaedia of Islamic Law. Vol. 2. Pentagon Press, New Delhi, India.

Mayer, A. E. (1991). Islam and Human Rights: Tradition and Politics. Westview Press, San Francisco, USA.

Organization for Islamic Culture and Commissions, Directorate of Research and Education, Centre for Cultural-International Studies. (2003). Islamic Views on Human Rights – Viewpoints of Iranian Scholars. Kanishka Publishers, Distributors, New Delhi, India.

Syed Muzaffar-ud-din Nadvi. (1980). Human Rights and Obligations in the light of the Quran and Hadith. SH. Muhammad Ashraf, Lahore, Pakistan.

Walid, S. (1999). Right and Freedom of Movement in Islam. Univision Press, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.